

Student Fees Committee 1952-53

Hazel-Frieda Larsen, Treasurer
Flola Shepard
Victor Sprague
Doyle Jones

Library Committee for 1952-53 to be elected

Publicity Committee for 1952-53 to be elected

Staff for 1952-53

Dietician to be appointed Malery Few, Cook
Cornelia Williams, Cook
Ben Sneed, Maintenance

LOCATION AND CAMPUS

Black Mountain College is located in the Great Craggy Mountains of western North Carolina, at an altitude of 2,400 feet. The 600 acre campus, with its farm and a little lake, is just off U. S. Highway 70, five miles from the town of Black Mountain, and fifteen miles from the city of Asheville.

The town of Black Mountain is on one of the main lines of the Southern Railway, and can be reached easily by motor car and bus. Direct railway service connects Black Mountain with New York and Chicago, and there is an airport just outside of Asheville. Although there is no public transportation available from the town of Black Mountain to the College, taxis can be hired and busses run a mile and a half from the campus.

The physical plant of the College is that of a former summer resort. Since moving to its present location in 1941, the College has constructed six new buildings:

the Studies Building, designed by A. Lawrence Kocher and built by students and faculty, contains classrooms, two faculty apartments and fifty individual studies for faculty and students a house for music faculty, designed by Kocher and built by students and faculty

the Quiet House, a place for quiet thought, designed and built by a former student in memory of a child who died here the Music Cubicle, designed and built by Paul Beidler with student help the Minimum House, a house for faculty, designed and built by four architecture students, under their self-imposed restriction that it not exceed $1000 in cost